LOCAL BRIEFS.

Peaches are plentiful.

A few watermelons were in market yesterday.

See notice of S. D. Harrison, who has for a time good and convenient house.

We were glad to see in our office yesterday H. T. Jordan, Esq., of Person. Mr. Jordan represented his county in the Legislature of 1870.

Two convicts for the Penitentiary arrived yesterday in this city from Duplin county. They are both white men, named Branch and Mintz, and have a term of twenty years each.

The meeting of the Educational Convention and the organization of the State Grange attracted a good many strangers to our city yesterday, and there was more bustle on the streets than usual.

Col. A. A. Wilson, recently of Petersburg, Va., has moved to this city with a view of establishing an agency for the Singer Sewing Machine. Col. Wilson comes well recommended.

The Local Ministers' Association of North Carolina meets in annual session on the 17th instant, at Marion, McDowell County, and will continue in session four days. Rev. R. L. Abernethy, of Rutherford College, is President of the Association. Ministers and visitors will be accommodated with one fare tickets on the various railroads.

Individually we have hitherto neglected to call attention to the advertisement of the Secretary of State inviting sealed proposals for furnishing the State with wood and coal for the ensuing year. Proposals will be received up to 12 m. on the 1st prox. Read the advertisement.

Remember the concert at Tucker Hall this evening for the benefit of the Oxford Orphan Asylum. The ladies and gentlemen who are to perform possess high musical culture and the public may expect a rich treat. As the proceeds of the entertainment are to be devoted to the support of a noble charity, the Hall should be filled to overflowing. Tickets can be procured at the bookstores of Messrs. Alfred Williams and J. H. Ennis at 50 cents each. The programme for the evening will be found in our advertising columns.

POPULATION OF PRINCIPAL PLACES IN NORTH CAROLINA.—The Census returns for 1870, recently published, gives the subjoined as the population of the leading cities and towns in this State at that time:

Wilmington	13,446
Raleigh	7,790
Newbern	5,849
Charlotte	4,463
Beaufort	2,430
Washington	2,094
Asheville	1,400
Tarboro	1,340
Goldboro	1,134
Elizabeth City	809
Hillsboro	554
Morganton	497
Greensboro	427
Halifax	357
Rocky Mount	208
Weldon	168
Salisbury	168

That the above is ridiculously incorrect can be seen by any one at all acquainted with the places mentioned. The population of Wilmington is placed some four thousand too low. Raleigh has every bit of ten thousand. Portsmouth is nearly depopulated, and Greensboro is made to rank below Morganton. In a word, the entire table is incorrect to such a degree as to render it worthless.

SUPREME COURT.—Yesterday the Court met at the usual hour. All the Judges present except Judge Boyden. The following cases were argued:

Uriah Vaughn vs. W. T. Stephenson, Adm'r, Northampton. Peebles & Peebles for plaintiff and D. A. Barnes for defendant.

Wm. K. Bridgers vs. S. T. Bridgers, Northampton. D. A. Barnes for plaintiff and Peebles & Peebles for defendant.

State vs. Benjamin S. Davis, Northampton. Attorney General, Peebles & Peebles, and W. H. Cox for the State and D. A. Barnes, Peebles & Peebles and Batchelor, Edwards & Batchelor for defendant.

W. H. Harris and wife vs. Carstarpher, Northampton. D. A. Barnes and Peebles & Peebles for plaintiffs and Smith & Strong for defendant.

The Court adjourned to meet again this morning at 9 o'clock.

THE CAPTURE OF JOHN ALLEN KETCHY.—This notorious horse-thief, who has always managed to escape from the numerous jails in which he has been confined, was captured on the 7th inst., in the neighborhood of Salisbury, by Mr. William Brown. Application yesterday was made at the Executive office for the reward, $200, which had been offered by the Governor for the arrest of the thief, and a warrant drawn on the Treasury for its payment.

VOL. II.

FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Convention was called to order at 10 o'clock, in Commons Hall, by the Hon. W. H. Battle, who delivered a brief address on the great importance of the work before the body.

Dr. Craven stated that the hour was at hand for the address of Dr. Craven, and moved that the Dr. appear before the Convention.

Dr. Craven said that he thought other business of more importance could be transacted by the Convention, and asked that the address be postponed. And, again, he did not know before he saw it in the DAILY NEWS of this morning that he was to speak at this hour.

Messrs. J. W. Norwood, Gov. Caldwell, and others objected to the postponement and Dr. Craven addressed the Convention on the subject of

THE TEACHER, occupying about thirty minutes in its delivery.

Letters were read by the Secretary from Prof. Charles Phillips, of Davidson College, and Silas N. Martin, of Wilmington, expressing their regret at not being able to be present, sickness the cause.

Prof. Dubb, of Trinity College, next addressed the Convention on the subject of

WHO SHALL TEACH THE TEACHER.

Major Robert W. Bingham followed in a thirty minutes address on the subject of

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Dr. Wingate, of Wake Forest College, was next called out, but gave way, on account of the lateness of the hour, to a motion to adjourn till 3 o'clock.

Dr. Pritchard offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee to consider the expediency of the appointment of lecturers, whose duty it will be to canvass the State thoroughly on the subject of education.

On motion, the Convention adjourned.

NIGHT SESSION.

The Convention assembled at 8:30 o'clock, the President in the chair.

Prof. Melver announced that according to programme Hon. A. S. Merriam was appointed to deliver an address on "Universal Education," but as he was the chairman of a very important committee now in session, he would call on the Rev. Dr. Mattoon to address the Convention on some subject.

Dr. Mattoon came forward and performed his duty well. On the subject of whether or not the Bible should be used as a text book, which was under discussion in the afternoon session, the speaker expressed himself in favor of making it a text book, and argued at considerable length on this important subject.

The Rev. Mr. Mangum being called on addressed the Convention briefly in reply to the arguments of the other speakers. He deprecated the idea as inexpedient and unwise, etc.

At 10 o'clock the night session adjourned.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.—STATE GRANGE.—Yesterday twenty Masters of the twenty-five Granges now in operation in this State assembled in Metropolitan Hall, this city, for the purpose of organizing a State Grange. Askew, W. S. Battle, G. W. Lawrence, J. M. Campbell, A. J. Gilliam and A. T. Mial were present.

J. W. Hall, Master of Rowan Central Grange, was called to the chair, temporarily. C. R. Jones and R. T. Fulgum were appointed Secretaries.

Messrs. J. S. Long, C. R. Jones and T. L. Vail were appointed a Committee on by-laws. After the lapse of a short time, the Committee, through their Chairman, Mr. Long, submitted a series of by-laws which, after some little debate, were adopted.

The election of officers of the State Grange was next gone into, which resulted as follows:

Master—W. S. Battle, of Edgecombe.

Overseer—Columbus Mills, of Cabarrus.

Lecturer—J. S. Long, of Newbern.

Steward—E. C. Davidson, of Mecklenburg.

Upon motion of Mr. Carlton, the deputies organizing Granges were authorized to retain $14 of any moneys which might be paid into their hands.

A. T. Mial offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the State Agricultural Journal, published in the City of Raleigh, by R. T. Fulgum, be considered the organ of the State Grange; that we recommend it to the support of all the members of the order."

On motion of J. W. Hall, the State Grange adjourned to meet again in this city on the 3d Wednesday of next February, unless sooner called by proper authority.

MAYORS COURT.—James Jeffries was the only unlucky individual who came before His Honor, Mayor Whitaker, yesterday. James was arraigned on two counts. One for taking, on or about the 28th ult. in St. Matthews Township, forcible possession of a gun and axe the property of Joseph C. Blake, and the other for breaking open the first inst., a trunk belonging to Patrick Sweet, and appropriating a silver watch and some other articles.

Both charges were fully proven on James and he was judged in default of $300 bail for the first offence and $500 for the latter. The worst part of the whole affair is that Jeffries was married on the first of the month, and is now deprived of the society of his blushing bride of about a week's standing.

CONCORD, N. H., July 9.—An attempt was made last night to throw the Boston Express train off the track near Suncook. Two men were seen placing ties upon the track by a woman, who they beat to insensibility and dragged to a place of concealment among the bushes. She recovered consciousness and managed to reach Suncook depot, and gave notice of the obstructions and saved the impending calamity. The assailants robbed the woman of her satchel containing nearly four hundred dollars. The satchel was found, but in place of the money was a piece of paper on which was plainly written in lead pencil, "we made more money than we should if we had tipped off the train, you fool." No traces of the men could be found.

Important Railroad Suit.—Sailing of the Tigress.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Board of Health states that no previous year since 1869 shows the hygienic condition of the corresponding week so favorable as that just passed. The cholera scare has considerably abated.

A suit has been begun in the Supreme Court on behalf of Joseph Seligman and others, to prevent the mortgage made by the North and South Alabama Rail Road Company from being cancelled. It appears that the plaintiffs agreed to dispose of the bonds of the road, receiving a commission of 34 per cent. upon the whole amount, but the defendants failed to carry out their part of the agreement, hence the suit.

Thirty of the best men on board the receiving ship have been selected for the crew of the Tigress, announced to sail will carry two hundred and thirty tons or coal and if necessary, will get a new supply at St. John's. By this evening all the supplies of provisions will be shipped. They are composed principally of pork and fatty matter. A large quantity of pemmican will be taken, also canned vegetables and fruits. The total amount of provisions carried will be for rations for forty men for two years.

Gladstone Again Defeated.

LONDON, July 9.—In the House of Commons a motion was made that the Government should address the foreign powers with a view of establishing arbitration as a permanent resort for the settlement of the differences between nations.

The motion was supported by figures showing the cost of standing armies. Gladstone opposed the motion. He argued that it would defeat its own object, because Continental nations held widely different views on the subject. He asked the gentleman to withdraw his motion.

Mr. Richards declined to withdraw. The House divided, and the division resulted in a tie, 93 yeas to 93 noes.

The Speaker gave the casting vote in favor of the motion, which was adopted.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

Opinion of the Attorney General on the Freedmen Bureau Funds.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The Attorney General has sent an opinion upon the subject of the funds in the Freedmen's Bureau to the War Department. The questions submitted were with reference to money taken from the Treasury by officers employed in the Bureau by means of forged receipts and vouchers for bounties due colored soldiers, and by means of receipts and vouchers fraudulently procured from them. The opinion required and was upon two points:

1st. In case where the guilty parties cannot be prosecuted, what should be the course in order to secure the protection of the interests of the government and of claimants.

2d. When the prosecution is not barred by the statute of limitations, what action should be had, and to what extent is the late Commissioner of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands and his chief disbursing officer responsible? The opinion is that if any military officer, detailed for duty in the Freedmen's Bureau, has been guilty of misappropriation of money or any violation of the rules and regulations governing disbursing officers of the army, he may be tried by Court Martial in the same manner as other such army officers, and that the claim agents and other persons not officers of the Government, who have obtained money from the bureau by means of forged receipts and vouchers, and other frauds, can be prosecuted criminally if two years have not elapsed since the commission of the crime, and can also be sued in the Civil Courts of the United States in the same manner as employees of Bureau can be. There is no statute limiting the time within which the Government can begin civil suit, but suits for penalties and double damages, under the act of March 3d, 1863, must be begun within six years. The Attorney General says, as to the chief disbursing officers: It is almost impossible upon the facts which are now before me, to

THE CRIME OF CAIN RE-ENACTED IN VIRGINIA.

Domestic tragedies in real life are becoming alarmingly prevalent.

The year 1873 seems destined to attain unenviable distinction for the number and horror of its unnatural crimes.

The frequency of family murders within the last six months is truly remarkable. Scarcely a week passes that we do not read harrowing details in the papers concerning the death of persons held by the laws of nature and of society to be nearest and dearest to those by whom their lives are taken away.

The verdict of the jury in the case of young Walworth and his sentence to imprisonment for life at hard labor for killing his own father, had barely been announced ere we were called upon to record the settlement of "some family troubles" in Virginia, by an appeal to arms—which resulted in a most tragic and awful manner.

Mr. Franklin Little, an esteemed citizen of Clarke county, Virginia, who resides in the vicinity of the classic town of Berryville, had six sons, Clinton, Columbus, Gilbert, Wallace, Oscar and Lycurgus. These all lived with their parents. Jealousy for some cause or other existed between the older brothers, and the younger espoused different sides.

On Saturday last, while some of the Little family were at breakfast, two of the boys came into the room, locked the door and addressed some words to one of their brothers at the table, indicative of their bloody purpose. In a moment revolvers were drawn and a general firing ensued. All the parties appear to have been armed. Clinton was mortally wounded, and died in about two hours after the fight was over. The coroner's jury rendered the following verdict:

"Clinton Little came to his death by a pistol shot fired premeditatedly by his brother Lycurgus."

All the brothers except Wallace were dangerously wounded. Mrs. Little, the mother, was also shot during the melee and is supposed to be fatally wounded. Her condition at the last accounts was critical. No mention is made of the father, and it is probable he was not present when the deplorable affair took place.

Intense indignation exists in the vicinity of the tragedy against Oscar and Lycurgus, the brothers who made the attack. The former is now in jail at Berryville.

Such in brief is a statement of the curd in the beautiful valley of Virginia, near the romantic Shenandoah, the loveliest and brightest of rivers. It is a sad, sad tale—this domestic tragedy of brothers against brothers! The immediate result is heart-rending. A mother desperately wounded by her own sons—a brother lying cold and stark—slain by a brother's hand! Others wounded and writhing in physical torture and mental agony! And then comes the trial for murder. Afterwards the conviction perhaps, and then the gallows. If the latter should by any possibility be escaped, the mark of Cain will be branded upon the brow of Clinton Little's murderer and a curse will follow him to his grave!

But let us turn from the picture—it is too sad for contemplation.

NORFOLK AND VUE DE L'EAU.

A visit to the seaside at this sultry season is always refreshing.

On the fourth of July, we threw down our pun, put aside the cares of editorial life and turned our face ocean-ward, with the hope of enjoying for a brief interval some of the pleasures so graphically described in the letter of a correspondent from Vue de L'Eau, in our issue of the third inst.

We found that our correspondent had not set down aught in exaggeration, and we have no cause to regret our trip.

Saturday was spent most pleasantly in Norfolk. We regard Norfolk as a North Carolina city, and always feel at home there. Our State is represented largely in every trade and profession. Many of the leading lawyers and commission merchants, as well as private citizens, are native North Carolinians, and their hearts are full of love and veneration for the land of their birth.

Our trip to Vue de L'Eau from Norfolk was a charming one. The boat contained probably over three hundred passengers. Business men, fathers and mothers with their children and nurses, gallant beaux with their sweet-hearts, old maids "in the serene and yellow leaf," and hard-favored old bachelors, Jews and Gentiles, the wealthy, the aristocratic, the proud, as well as the poor, the humble, the meek, all on pleasure intent, embarked on the noble steamer for a short respite from the sultriness of the city.

Many stopped at Vue de L'Eau; some at Old Point; while others made the round trip to the Capes.

On landing at the Vue de L'Eau wharf, the impression is not at first favorable. The hotel is over a hundred yards distant, and appears to be built on a sand-bank. The building is large and imposing, but there is no inviting scenery to meet the eye on the shore. Sand-hills abound, and the hand of art has not transformed the landscape into beauty and attractiveness. We could not suppress a feeling of disappointment at the barren prospect; but when we reached the spacious hotel, we were pleased with the air of comfort and contentment it presented.

We met with a number of acquaintances who were regaling themselves with the pleasures of the seaside, and who in conversation waxed eloquent in depicting the charms of Vue de L'Eau life—the bracing atmosphere, the refreshing baths, the romantic walks along the shore, the historic dismantled fortifications adjacent, the elegant fare, the inspiring view of the ocean, etc., etc., ad infinitum.

At the close of the day, we took a pleasant stroll along the beach in company with a genial companion, and the walk was a delightful one. Visitors in pairs and groups were sauntering along the banks, drinking in the invigorating breeze wafted from the deep, deep sea, and feasting their eyes upon the expanse of water rolling out before them, now placid, and gentle and unbroken, now ruffled, and wrinkled, and broken. As we gazed upon the heaving main, the lines in the Corsair came to us:

"O'er the glad waters of the dark blue sea,
Our thoughts are boundless and our souls as free;
Far as the breeze can bear, the billows foam,
Survey our empire, and behold our home."

Upon our return to the hotel we found that we were in fine condition to enjoy Capt. Freeman's excellent supper. The large dining room presented a lively scene. Nearly every seat was occupied, and our ears were greeted with the clattering of knives and forks and the merry voices of the participants, who were devouring with hearty gusto the tempting dishes so palatable to the appetite of the lovers of bivalvular delicacies and their near relations. To those who are found of crabs and clams and oysters and all manner of fresh fish, Vue de L'Eau presents unsurpassed attractions, and they are served by the Superintendent in a manner which gives satisfaction to epicures.

The usual concomitants to be found at places of resort here abound. Billiard saloons, ten pins, shooting galleries and the like afford amusement and recreation to the visitors, while the bathing facilities are said to be almost unequalled. The ball room is large and convenient, and dancing is indulged in every evening.

On the whole, Vue de L'Eau is a pleasant place to spend a week or so for health or pleasure, and if we can find the opportunity we intend to repeat our visit before the Summer is over.

A POEM BY A NORTH CAROLINIAN.

In the Norfolk Virginian of the first of July.

Lake Drummond.

A dismal wilderness secured thee long
From rude invasion or the poet's song;
Long, long ere man disturbed thy sweet repose
Or vainly strove thy beauties to disclose.

No human footsteps marked thy peaceful
No festive barge thy rippled bosom bore,
Frequented only by some beast of prey,
Or laid to rest by stillness with a lay.

Round thee a halo sheds its brightest glow,
O'er the expanse of waters gently blow,
On thee the sun beams softened rays,
And to the air a holy radiance lend.

Trees ever verdant round thy margin grow
With branches mirrored in the stream below,
Where melting music often strikes the lay,
Borne on the gentle zephyr o'er the spray.

And did thy great Artificer design
From human view to hide thy face divine?
Did man intrude where nature had concealed
Such charms unchanging sacred, unrevealed?

'Twas not to prowling beast and birds
That Drummond's Lake was destined to be known,
For though surrounded by a desert drear,
Though murky wilds on every side appear,

Above these wilds a fair enchantress bends
And to the lake a magic beauty lends,
She breathes celestial sweetness round the place
And sheds a lovely tint upon its face.

Shed off to inspire the muse to sing thy name,
The shades made classic by illustrious
Shall form poetic bowers round thy shore,
And to the lake a magic beauty lend.

The poem is not given as original,
but is dated Norfolk, Va., June the 26th, 1873.

Now, it was not written in Norfolk,
nor at the time it was dated in the Virginian.

We know Capt. Hope is too good a friend of North Carolina to do the State intentional injustice, and that he is one of the last men to deprive her of any of her honors—literary or historical. He has manifested on various occasions considerable interest in the reputation and welfare of the Old North State, and for that reason we feel assured that in publishing the poem on Lake Drummond he was laboring under a false impression as to its authorship.

The poem was written in North Carolina, by a North Carolinian, in June 1873. The author is the late Gilbert Elliott, Esq., of Elizabeth City, who has been dead many years. At the time of his death, Mr. Elliott was a prominent lawyer of Eastern North Carolina, and a gentleman of fine culture and literary attainments. He died in the vigor of early manhood. His widow is favorably known throughout the State for her patriotic efforts during the war in behalf of the necessities of Confederate soldiers and to relieve the sufferings of the sick and the wounded. She is the author of Mrs. Elliott's House-wire.

We have another poem written by Gilbert Elliott "After Returning from Lake Drummond, June 1873," which we will give to our readers to-morrow.

The word "quiz," to make fun of or to poke fun at a person, was the coinage of a theatrical manager in Dublin, who, at a drinking party with his friends one Saturday night, when the conversation turned upon the subject of words, offered to bet the wine that he could then and there coin a word which would be in the mouths of all Dublin the next day. The bet being taken, and the party dispersed, the manager called up his call-boys and runners, gave them pieces of chalk, and ordered them to run "all over the city, chalking the word 'quiz' on every door, shutter and fence they came to. This was done, and, as a matter of course, the new word was in everybody's mouth the next day. The manager won his bet, and his word is now in all respectable dictionaries.

The following curious advertisement is from an old English paper: "Wanted, for a family who have had health, a sober, steady person, in the capacity of doctor, surgeon, apothecary and man of law. He must occasionally act as midwife. He must occasionally act as butler, and dress hair and wigs. He will be required to sometimes read prayers and to preach a sermon every Sunday. A good salary will be given."

There is some talk of a third party in Texas, though they don't know what to do with the two old ones already on hand.

A Caio pound keeper has resigned because the Common Council objected to his writing Hon. before his name.

The special Grand Jury of the Richmond Hustings Court are investigating the recent duel.

London papers who are sued for libel turn about and sue the persons who furnished the information.

Jim Brown, the negro murderer, swings at Suffolk, Va., on Friday.

Boston wants to get up a national school of historical painters.

A new bathing costume for ladies at the seaside is called the "Nellie Grant."

I have used Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator in my family for Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, and regard it as an invaluable remedy in these attacks. It has not failed to give relief in any instance.

The Raleigh Daily News.

THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1873.

The following was written by a Confederate Captain, while confined in the prison at Johnson's Island during the late unpleasantness. We have little doubt but that as years have rolled by the writer's pathway through life is cheered by the radiance of the "love-lit eye" of that lady love. If these lines would not "fetch her," we don't know what would!

MY LOVE AND I.

My love reposes on a rosewood frame—
A "bunk" have I;
A couch of feather down fills up the same—
Mine's straw, but dry;
She sinks to sleep at night with scarce a sigh—
With waking eyes I watch the hours creep by.
My love her daily dinner takes in state—
And so do I;
The richest viands flank her silver plate—
Coarse grub have I;
Pure wines she sips at ease, her thirst to slake—
I pump my drink from Erie's limpid lake!
My love has all the world at will to roam—
Three acres I;
She goes abroad or quiet sits at home—
So cannot I;
Bright angels watch around her couch at night—
A Yank, with loaded gun, keeps me in sight.
A thousand weary miles now stretch between
My love and I;
To her, this wintry night, cold, calm, serene,
I wait a sigh,
And hope, with all my earnestness of soul,
To-morrow's mail may bring me my parole!
There's hope ahead! We'll one day meet again,
My love and I;
We'll wipe away all tears of sorrow then;
Her love-lit eye
With all my many troubles then beguile,
And keep this wayward rebel from Johnson's Isle!

[From our Special Correspondent.

In and Around Greensboro.

GREENSBORO, July 9.

Hon. J. M. Leach has commenced the erection of his dwelling house on West Market street. He will make this his home.

Our new court house bell has made its appearance. The court house is rapidly approaching completion, and ere long we will hear the old familiar sound of a city clock, and a bell, which has been hushed by the flames so long.

Dr. Benbow has commenced the brick work of his new building adjoining his hotel, the second story of which is intended for a city hall.

The excursion to Richmond on the 3rd, gotten up in the interest of the Baptist church at Halifax Court House, Va., by Mr. J. M. Corvington, editor of the Halifax Record, was liberally patronized by our people.

Roasting ears and watermelons are in the market, the latter selling at 75 cents—size of your head.

At last, at this late date, when we had almost despaired of ever seeing them, the long looked for and long promised mule and cart has been purchased by the city authorities. The trash swept to the centre of the streets every Saturday morning will now probably be hauled off.

The fourth passed off very quietly and pleasantly in this place, though the boys indulged in fireworks on a small scale. If the colored brethren had not celebrated the fourth you wouldn't hardly have known there was a fourth.

Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars will hold their second annual meeting in this city on the 9th of September next. R. P. Troy, Grand Deputy, of Greensboro Lodge No. 7, organized two subordinate Lodges last week—one at Trinity College and the other at McLeansville—both under flattering prospects. At the meeting of the Greensboro Lodge Monday night there were four initiations.

Rev. J. E. Mann, of Goldsboro, passed through this place Monday, en route for Salem.

A couple of Irishmen had an altercation Monday evening in Rees' Hotel—nothing more nor less than an Irishman's fight.

Greensboro is still improving. I can hear the hammer on all sides. Many new buildings are in course of erection, and others in contemplation.
